PRICES BOARD BRIEFS

The Ration Administration of the Prices Board announces the first five coupons for canning sugar will become valid on May 15th. The will be Y coupons 1 to 5 inclusive, each good for one pound of sugar. Second allotment will become valid on July 17th when Y coupons 6 to 10 inclusive may be used. These coupons are also available for purposes other than canning or for preserves.

Meat rationing came to an end on March 27. Meatless days in restaurants and hotels remain in effect. All slaughtering regulations and all quota regulations are also continued. Meat rationing was first imposed in Canada late in 1943 and suspended in March 1944. It was reintroduced in September 1945.

The Prices Board announces that WPTB licenses will in future be required only by those persons or businesses who are dealing in any goods or services still subject to price control. Formerly licenses were required for practically all types and kinds of business. However, because a great number of commodities and services have been suspended from price control by the Board, officials said that it would no longer be necessary to obtain a license if a person or business firm were dealing exclusively in commodities or services which are not subject to price control.

Price control over wool in all its forms whether yarn, fabrics or clothing has been removed.

This means that fabrics consisting wholly of cotton or rayon remain under price control as a substantial subsidy is still being paid on raw cotton going into process. The ceiling is removed from footwear of all kinds. Leather itself, as well as hides remain subject to price control.

WORLD OF WHEAT

Bill No 23

I venture to forecast that Bill No. 23 will be pointed out by the historian of the future as the first definite step of the socialization of Canadian industries. Nothing like this has ever been seen before in the history of Canada. The Bill controls the production, usage, transportation and marketing, and the setting of prices of wheat, by the government of Canada.

A price of $1.35 is irrevocably set until 1950. Not a single step in the production or handling or the marketing of wheat can be taken without authorization of the Government's Wheat Board which Board is no longer, as it has been in the past, the agent of our farmers, but is now responsible only to the government itself.

The Act provides severe penalties for farmers and others for any infraction of the many rules and regulations that may be set out by the Board. Any police officer has the right to lift a farmer's permit book and hold it for 15 days and if the farmer should be convicted of an offence then he may be fined up to $300 with imprisonment for three months, or he may be deprived of the use of his permit book, hence the right to deliver grain for one year.

There is no provision for divorce in Italy.

OUR HALF ACRE

By J. G. Umbrite

Good Seed

The yield and quality of a crop harvested is determined to no small extent by the character of the seed used. Good seed should be pure as to variety, free from weed seeds, free from seed borne diseases, and have a high percentage germination. Pure seed ensures a uniform crop, which will ripen uniformly and produce grain of high quality.

Freedom from weed seeds is a very important characteristic of good seed. Most of our noxious weeds have been spread through the use of unclean seed. If seed contains one noxious weed seed per pound, and the seeding rate is two bushels per acre, this means that in the case of wheat there are 120 weed seeds planted per acre. If each weed seed planted produced 50 weed seeds per plant it does not take long for a comparatively clean field to become badly infested with weeds.

All seed should be treated to kill the seed borne diseases, such as smut. Grain that is known to bear disease should not be used as seed. Disease lowers the vitality of the seed and thus makes for a weaker stand of grain.

Seed of good vitality and high percentage of germination produces a strong vigorous crop. Grain that has been damaged by frost, heating or immature should not be used for seed.

Every farm should have a seed plot of four or five acres on which pure seed can be grown for use on the rest of the farm. Special care should be taken with the plot to see that the grain maintains its purity. When seed is imported from another farm there is always danger of getting new weeds. This danger can be eliminated if the farmer grows his own seed on his own farm.

UNCLE HY SAYS

If you have on your shelves, my friends, the books that children read, there's something you should surely do, 'twill make you glad indeed, just wrap them up this very day, to the Toronto Library send, and your books will give much pleasure to some little English friend.

In England children have no books that they may sit and read, for Hitler's bombs destroyed them all, they really did indeed, and there is little paper there to print a new supply, so you can see just how it is, to help out you should try.

Please mail these books, you know the kind, that once appealed to you, when you were small and growing up, and life was strange and new, and send them on with name, address and in this humble way, you'll help some little English child to a brighter, happier day

Oat Varieties in Western Canada

Last year, for the first time, Line Elevator grain buyers were asked to estimate the percentage of the total oat acreage, in their own districts, occupied by different oat varieties. A total of 2,256 Agents completed and returned variety survey forms. A brief summary of the survey follows:

Manitoba. In 1946, the percentage of the total oat acreage occupied by the recommended varieties, namely, Vanguard (43.2%), Ajax (29.7%), and Exeter (4.5%), was 77.4 per cent. For 1947, Vanguard, Ajax, and Exeter are the officially approved varieties for all Manitoba soil zones, with this exception—Vanguard is not recommended for Zone 2A (Red River Valley).

Saskatchewan. The three recommended varieties—Victory (39.2%), Ajax (18.6%), and Exeter (1.4%)—occupied only 59.2% of the total Saskatchewan oat acreage in 1946. The percentage of the acreage devoted to non-recommended varieties was as follows: Banner, 21.0%; Vanguard, 11.4%; Gopher, 5.5%; and others, 2.9%. In 1947, Victory, Ajax, and Exeter are again the officially recommended varieties for Saskatchewan.

Alberta. Victory is the most popular oat variety in Alberta. In 1946, it occupied 59.0% of the total oat acreage, Banner (21.0%), Legacy (6.7%), and certain other approved varieties, were grown on 14.8% of the acreage. Only 6.0% of the 1946 Alberta oat acreage was devoted to non-recommended varieties. Victory, Ajax, Legacy, Karain, Eagle, and Banner (Zone 4 only) are recommended for 1947.

Prairie Provinces. In 1946, the percentage of the total oat acreage in Western Canada occupied by different varieties was as follows: Victory, 39.5%; Banner, 18.1%; Ajax, 16.3%; Vanguard, 14.0%; Gopher, 4.2%; and others, 7.9%.

Information on the varieties of oats officially recommended for your particular district in 1947 can be obtained from your local Agricultural Representative, or nearest Dominion Experimental Station. Treatment of all oat seed planted in Western Canada in 1947 is strongly recommended.
